

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0041] A method for the production of cam shafts, with which by using the known high internal pressure forming method cam shafts may be produced, which have adequate strength, have low flexure, possess a high resistance to torsion and possess high flexural strength in the loaded faces of on the cam flank and tips or crests.

SEQUENCE LISTING

Not Applicable